Country Precincts Yet To Count Returns in Several State Races

Because of the intense interest in the senatorial and gubernatorial contests, few of the precincts scattered throughout the state had tabulated the results in the lesser races. In many instances the length of the ballot, and limited staffs at election booths precluded completion of the count until late today. Most rural points closed after the senatorial and gubernatorial count was finished, or after they had tabulated local legislative returns.

Interest in races for secretary of state, attorney-general, state treasurer, comptroller-general, commissioner of agriculture and state superintendent of schools, as well as other state offices, was almost completely submerged by the two principal contests.

Local Races Overshadowed.

Local Races Overshadowed.

Because of the intensity of the drives of Congressman Charles R. Crisp and Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. for the senatorial nomination to succeed the late William J. Harris, and the seven-cornered drive for the governor's position, other state and local races were overshadowed.

In DeKalb the contests to less than 25, and the first degislature which assembled a few days before his inauguration passed the law.

On the whole, his legislative program ran smoothly enough. He completely dominated both the house and senate. Not until the southwide agination for control of cotton acreage, in August, 1931, did storm clouds gather.

In DeKalb the contests for the legislature dwindled down for the most part to those favoring a referendum on a proposal to merge with Fulton and those opposing it.

Governor Russell based his campaign on three major premises: opposition to cancellation of war debts, advocacy of a tariff on jute and a reorganization of the national government along the lines recommended in the platform adopted by the democratic national convention.

From the start, he made a slashing attack on the record of his opponent in congress and particularly assailed the imposition of the "nuisance" taxes which were adopted by congress in order to balance the national budget.

Georgians first knew him in 1926 when he offered as a candidate against the then commissioner of agriculture on a platform to smash the Brown political machine. One of his first moves in that race was to challenge Brown for a series of joint debates and political legend is that he "literally drove Brown off the stump," and as soon as he took the oath of office broke the machine to smithereens.

Talmadge's three major planks in his successful race for governor were: First, the right of the average man to make a living; second, the cause of the schools, and, third, roads.

At various times—and in some instances daily—Talmadge was the particular target of the other candidates. Only Abit Nix and Hoke O'Kelley, of the six who remained in the race.

MILITARY TRAINING SEEN FOR YOUTH OF GERMANY

BERLIN. Sept. 14.—(UP)—Establishment of a new commission for the physical training of German youth, which it is thought may ultimately provide a basis for a national militia, was decreed today by President Paul von Hindenburg.

The decree came unexpectedly and creates a so-called reichskuratorium for the training of youth. It was interpreted as indicating the government's desire to avoid such political unrest as might be evoked by the semi-military maneuvers of the Hitlerite brown shirts, scheduled for October 14 at Mecklenburg.

It was learned the government does not intend to dissolve existing organizations of semi-military character, such as Hitler's storm troopers, the Steel Helmets, whose recent demonstration of strength created such an impression, or the forces of the reichsbanner.

"Decisions taken by the reichstag after presentation of a decree of dissolution are unconstitutional and hence void," said the presidential secretary in a communication to the speaker. "The president does not intend to draw any consequences from ese decisions."

This means, it was explained, that the aged field marshal does not expect the chancellor to resign nor to rescind the emergency decrees legalizing his program to effect economic rehabilitation and to relieve unemployment. These decrees also were voted down by the relehstag.

Authorities held to some measure of optimism over the fact that three steamships had reported the American Nurse over the Atlantic, indicating that her navigation was approximately correct.

The information at Ciampino airport was that the ship had gas for 40 hours or more and should arrive in Rome within that time. The air distance between Rome and New York is 4,200 miles and previous reports on the American Nurse indicated that she was making better than 100 miles an hour.

The General Tire and Rubber Company condemns the practice of lowering quality to meet price. Tires are not stationary merchandise. Tires deal with human safety. Tires carry human beings at modern speeds of 60 miles an hour-that's 88 feet a second.

The gruesome casualty list will increase in direct proportion to the volume of unsafe, doubtful tires sold.

Tires' Built for 25 Miles an Hour Should Not be Driven 40, 50 or 60

Driving at 60 or better on tires built for 25 miles an hour is dangerous business.

Tires are the biggest single factor in driving safety. Blowouts and skidding account for an appalling number of accidents.

Unhampered by the dictates of big volume buyers General always has been free to mold its own policy strict adherence to absolute Top Quality. That policy has not changed.

17.6% Increase in Sales Proves That People Still Want Quality

Every effort is being made to blind the public to quality with blatant appeals of price and misleading claims. Everybody is not yielding to this price temptation. Proof? 17.6% more Generals were bought in the first six months of 1932 than in that same period of last year. Can any other tire manufacturer say anything like that?

Generals always were worth their difference in price, even when that difference was measured in dollars. Now the low cost of rubber and other materials brings General's Top Quality within range of any motorist.

General's success proves the soundness of sticking to Top Quality. The 17.6% increase in sales proves that people want the exclusive advantages of patented nobreaker-strip construction - full-length plies from bead to bead-blowout-proof and skid-safe protection-the luxurious comfort of 30% less air pressure - and the economy of General's famous big mileage.

THE GENERAL TIRE & RUBBER CO., AKRON, OHIO

Here's the Final Price

152,732 persons killed in only 5 years of automobile accidents. 66,100 killed and injured by cars leaving road.

51,720 killed and injured by skidding.

That means a cost of $20 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 14.—(UP)
A momentous battle in the cotton industry was resumed today when the American Cotton Co-operative Association, two-year-old offspring of the federal farm board, sent its highest officials to Washington for the third round of a battle for existence.

Co-operative leaders U. B. Blastock, Raleigh, N. C., president; C. O. Moser, vice president, and W. F. Creekmore; the $50,000-a-year general manager, will appear before the Shannon congressional committee investigating government interference with private business when the last of three hearings starts Thursday.

It is a battle with the cotton trade, which charges the A. C. C. A. has unsettled the orderly farm marketing plan. The co-operative, in turn, accuses the trade of trying to destroy faith in the farmers' ability to origanize.

Competing small dealers, who plan to barge their cotton down the river and save money on the standard transportation rate available to the co-operative, also enter the situation.

The A.C. C. A. has been charged with ruining small dealers by its 90 per cent advance. Banks will lend only 85 per cent at most. The co-operative borrows 85 per cent from banks and 15 per cent from the farm board and gets 100 per cent loans on its cotton. The cotton trade is trying to stop this practice by having the farm board eliminated.

The struggle has had much to do with the very high basis for cotton this year, that is, it has narrowed the differences between prices posted out in the country and prices at central cotton points. Farmers are getting better prices as a result.

The co-operative, which offers to advance the farmer 90 per cent of the value of his crop on delivery, and assures him the average price for the season by marketing it for him gradually, is frequently overbid. Traders who sold contracts when the market was high, are able to exceed the "regular" price.

The spontaneous and tumultuous acclaim with which the democratic presidential nominee is being greeted is an echo of the Maine election in which the republican party was repudiated after an unbroken control of 18 years.

No democratic campaign has begun more auspiciously since the War Between the States. It was preceded by two years of constantly increasing evidences of dissatisfaction with republican policies and administration, during which republican control of the house disappeared before the onslaught of democratic votes at congressional elections.

The first definite indication as to how the wind was blowing came early in 1930 when, for the first time in 25 years, the home district of President Coolidge in Massachusetts elected a democratic congressman. Ever since the democrats have made consistent gains, both in concant victory in the rock-ribbed republican state of Maine, in which tail, be more ambitious than the the republicans were ousted from the governorship and lost two out

SMITH, OF SOUTH CAROLINA. The decisive defeat of Cole Blease by Senator Ellison D. Smith in the run-off primary in South Carolina is a tribute to the political sagacity of the voters of the state.

Especially at this time is it vital that men of the type of Senator Smith should be kept on the job in Washington. During the rehabilitation period now facing the federal government it is of the greatest importance that the deliberations of congress should be governed by mature judgment and conservatism.

Radicalism must have no place in the conduct of the government during the next few years and Senator Smith, as a result of his ability and long service, can be depended upon to aid the reorganization necessary to greater efficiency and reduced ex-

Among the other men, who remember Trotsky is inequalled eloquence and his yeoman services in the first days of yeoman services in the first days of the revolution, he is remembered with a certain amount of sadness. He had influence. Everything seemed to indicate that he would be Leuin's successor. And then—suddenly—he was in exile and living abroad. The heat of Djedda on the Red sea struck the British speechless in 1917, we are told in a tamous collection of war anuals.

I know that heat. I was in the Arabian desert in 1929 when a hot wind blew and the sky became obscured with myriads of yellow dust particles until all the world seemed a yellow curtam. You could not put your hands on the mud guards of the automobile in which we were traveling without scorching and blistering ing without scorching and blistering them. And yet that heat doesn't com-pare with the unbearable suffocating pare with the unbeatable suffocating closeness which prevails on a sultry day in the south Russiav steppes. It not only strikes one speechless. It strikes one breathless. "But it's good for the grain," they told me as I protested that I couldn't last much longer. Good for the grain! DRYS IN CAROLINAS CONDEMN WET PLANKS

When a Disease Is Epidemic, the Only Safe Servants Are the Immune -By Robert Quillen-

Years ago the world was content with the ethical standards revealed by the slogan: "Let the buyer beware." Trickery was called shrewdness and the best liar got the most profit.

Even so late as Ben Franklin's time, honesty was regarded as an unusual policy and advocated on the ground that it paid. The hero of fic-tion was described as "poor but honest" to distinguish him from ordinary paupers whose knavery was taken for granted.

Prosperity brought new standards. The poor who settled the west developed a new dignity. Equality and plenty nurtured self-respect. Schools and churches and opportunity combined to engender a universal ambition to "be somebody."

Predatory men exploited the country's resources and left their riches a second generation that itched to be "in society."

And within the span of a century the land was filled with literate people who aspired to be gentlemen and gentlewomen.

Much of the striving was pathetic and vulgar, but the motive back of it was decent. People wished to be noble. And out of this ambition developed the conviction that decency is its own sufficient reward. Small boys were taught to be gentlemen because honest men and nonesty was essential to their self-respect. The thief was an outcast and the grafter a social pariah. Public wrath and scorn destroyed the dishonest public official. Merchants adopted the one-price system. Adverg became honest. We were a land of respectable, God-fearing peo-ridiculous in many ways and by no means perfect, but fundamentaltising

Then came another change. The three forces that support virtue are religion, fear of the law or public opinion and pride in decency. All three were robbed of their strength. Many agencies combined with ribald critics to weaken the influence of religion; failure to enforce prohibition developed almost universal contempt for law; public opinion, corrupted by rotten literature and movies and slowly adjusted to the fact of dishonor in public and private life no longer was outraged by graft and crime; and pride ceased to require honor, since public opinion

Now dishonesty and falsehood have broken us. Every hurt we suffer can be traced to trickery, deceit, false claims, sharp practice, dishonesty and dishonor. Dishonor wrecked us and honor alone can save us: There is no hope

Not only do we doctors quarramong ourselves over the applicatio of the focal infection principle i practice (it is a well-established principle in the control of the contr ciple, and not a mere theory), but many cases where the presumptive source of the trouble is in the teeth source of the trouble is in the teeth the unhappy victim has to decide for himself whether to follow the physician's advice or the dentist's. This, too, is a natural consequence of our absurd medical education. Today there is no sound reason why dentists should not receive their education in the receiver. not receive their education in the regular medical schools, and then suc technical or special post-graduate training as such a specialty as theirs

Both physicians and these intempestive specialists who are doctors in everything but license, become a bit top-heavy with all this ultra education they have to ingest in their school days, and it requires some good hard knocks to put a little horse sense into their heads after they get into practheir heads after they get into prac-tice. Some of them become, impervious to horse sense, especially the pampered pet of doting newly-rich relatives. Now what a precious lot of intel-lectual nincompoops we physiciaus and dentists are in respect to the problem of dead or pulpless teeth. First the dentists pull and haul at the dazed dentists pull and hauf at the dazed patient to persuade him to have the nerve killed or to avoid that procedure by all means. While they spit refined venom at each other over the question the patient, weary of paying for "treatments" and fed up with discomfort, drops into some unpretentious little dental office up in his own suburb and has the nerve removed (pulp destroyed) and the root canal filled. All goes well and the patient sits back and smiles contentedly for several weeks, mouths or years. But sooner or later he falls into the clutches of the highbrow dentist or doctor once more, innocently complains of an ache or pain somewhere out of the picture, and in two jerks he is having all his teeth X-rayed.

Right here, in order to finish within

Right here, in order to finish within the time limit, let it be clearly under-stood that the question of whether to remove the dead teeth (pulpless teeth teeth from which the nerve has been teeth from which the nerve has been destroyed or taken out) or leave them destroyed or taken out) or leave them undisturbed is in every instance a question of opinion. My own opinion is that such teeth should remain in the jaw until definite evidence of root infection (not mere X-ray films) makes dental surgery necessary, just as though the teeth were not "dead"

Six Points.

In detailing the points he said had been agreed upon by farm leaders in the search for a way of restoring agriculture to a parity with other in-dustries, Mr. Roosevelt outlined: "First: The plan must provide for the producer of staple surplus com-modities such as wheat, cotton, corn (in the form of hog) and tobacco, a tariff benefit over world prices which is equivalent to the benefit giv the tariff to industrial pro come, purchasing and power will not stimulate further

"Second: The plan must financ itself. Agr sought and itself. Text of Roosevelt's Speech

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 14.—(AP) The following is the text of Frank-lin D. Roosevelt's address here

I have come here not alone to talk to you about farms and farming. I have come just as much and even more to listen and to learn. On this whole trip I am seeking, as on many previous occasions, first-hand contacts with that section of the nation which is responsible for the major part of the food supply of the mation.

In my contacts here and in the discussions that I have, I want to hear from men and women of all parties and of all views on the question of farm relief. I am going to tion of farm relief. I am going to follow one simple principle in this discussion and that is complete and absolute frankness. This question is too serious to be trifled with by empty political platitudes or specious and ingenious tricks of language or of thought. In dealing with this subject I want to avoid on the one hand political sky-writing, and on the other, political wise-cracking.

In keeping faith with this prin-

In keeping faith with this prin ciple of getting down to business, let me say what I think we all recog-nize—that there is no single rem-edy that will by itself bring imme-diate prosperity to the agricultural population of all parts of the United States. You know that, and I know that and it is a good point to start that, and it is a good point to star

I know this personally for four reasons. First, I have lived on a farm in the state of New York for 50 years. Second, I have run a farm in the state of Georgia for eight years. Third, ever since I went into public life I have made it a point to travel over this country and in so doing I have maintained what I think modesty will permit me to say is a genuine and practical interest in the farm problems of the various parts of this country at first hand. Finally, as governor of the state of New York, the farm products of which rank fifth or sixth among all states of the Union.

I have in four years devoted myself to building a farm program of which the people of my state, regardless of party, have some reason to be proud.

HOW NEW YORK STATE HAS AIDED ITS FARMERS.

In the campaign for the governor-ship in 1928 the fact was properly stressed that even though New York is often thought of as a state pri-marily urban, yet its own farm problem was of immediate and critical importance. Some of the distress that you and the middle west have felt was present in parts of New With York in the same acute form. Without indulging in excessive promises, I assured the farmers of New York that their problems would be met by practical and definite action.

In the creation of a state plan I recognized the principle of bringing more than one mind to bear on the problem and of putting more than one shoulder to the wheel. Not alone through the process of appointing commissions and calling conferences, but by the actual enactment of legiscommissions and calling conferences, but by the actual enactment of legislation we built our policies. In the years that have followed we have attempted a number of substantial things. They are set forth in the public record; existing tax obliga-tions of local communities were lightened to the extent of $24,000,000 year, state aid for roads was redis tributed on a mileage basis instea f on an assessment basis so that th poorer communities could enjoy ex-actly the same assistance in the improvement of dirt roads as that give en to the richer suburban commun ties. The same principles of al ties. The same principles of aid were applied to rural schools in or-der to guarantee a modern educader to guarantee a modern educa tion for the children of farmers ever in the most sparsely settled commu-nities. The state assumed the en-tire cost of constructing and reconstructing roads and bridges in the state highway system, thus lifting another heavy tax burden from farm another heavy tax burden from farm property. The state paid all except a very small fraction of the cost of grade-crossing elimination so that safety might be afforded to the less as well as the more fortunate dis-tricts of the state. Appropriations for the safeguarding of rural he were increased. A provision for funds for a soil survey of the state was made and this is already paying a substantial dividend in more profita substantial dividend in more pronti-able farming, in its aid to our state reforestation program and in en-abling farmers to get necessary road improvements, telephone lines and electric power lines. The co-opera-tive corporation law and the laws regulating traffic in farm produce were revised and strengthened in the interest of the farmer. Very recently legislation was enacted to recently legislation was enacted to create a new system of rural credit organizations to meet the emergency reated by the collapse of rura I cite these examples to illustrate the many angles that attended the building up of this program. The great lesson of it all is that there great lesson of it all is that there is no single cure-all, but that prog ress comes from a comprehension of many factors and a sincere attempt to move forward on many lines at the same time. FARMER IS OBVIOUSLY IN ACUTE DISTRESS.

I see no necessity for discussing in detail the acute distress in which the farmer finds himself. You all know that better than anyone can tall you. know that better than anyone can tell you. You have felt it in your own lives and experiences. And you have seen it reflected in limiting the opportunities that you have wanted to give your families. This experi-ence of yours is far more moving than any phrases of mine or of any-one else. This distress has grown for more than 11 years over a radius of 100 miles from where I stand, in for more than 11 years over a radius of 100 miles from where I stand, in as productive and fertile a country as the world has ever seen. We have poverty and want in the midst of abundance. With incomparable natural wealth within the reach of these progressive farmers they struggle with poverty and unbelievably hard times. They are to hold their farms times. They try to hold their farms under conditions produced by corn, hogs, cotton, wool, and cattle and wheat selling on the farm at prices low or lower than at any time the history of the United States. in the history of the United States. There has been some slight rise from these low levels, but in spite of it, there remains in millions of farm homes continuing uncertainty and apprehension. This means that the farmer misses not only the things that make life tolerable but those that made decent living possible. It means—and this is most important—that the farmer's children must suffer the denial of those chances for education that justice and fairness should assure to them. We all of us hoped that our children would have a "better break" than we had. But the economic turn has almost nave a "better break" than we had. But the economic turn has almost blasted that hope for the farm par-ent. This means nothing less than the shadow of peasantry.

There are six and one-half million families to whom this deepening shadow is a grim reality. These six and one-half million families represent 22 per cent of the total population of the United States. They are the people actually living on farms. It is fair to ask what percentage of the national income comes each year to this 22 per cent of the population. Let us remember these figures: In 1920 this 22 per cent of the population got 15 per cent of the national income; in 1925 it received 11 per cent. By 1928 agriculture's share had dropped to only just above 9 per cent and the most recent estimate based on the figures of the United States department of agriculture itself shows that farm income has today dropped to about 7 per cent. Remember well that during the past four years when he has been the chief executive of the nation, and also as a member of the cabinet during the previous six years, the dominant factor in our governmental economic policies has been the distinguished gentleman who is running against me.

the distinguished gentleman who is running against me.

But let us not stop at our six and one-half million farm families. Let us remember that 50,000,000 men, women and children within our borders are directly and immediately concerned with the present and the future of agriculture.

NO NATIONAL PROSPERITY UNLESS FARMERS PROSPER.

UNLESS FARMERS PROSPER.

Again, let us not stop there. Another fifty or sixty million people who are engaged in business or in industry in our large and small city-communities are at last coming to an understanding of the simple fact that their lives and futures are profoundly concerned with the prosperity of agriculture. They realize more and more that there will be no outlet for their products unless their fifty million fellow Americans who are directly concerned with agriculture are given the buying power to buy products.

Our economic life today is a seam-less web. Whatever our vocation we are forced to recognize that while we have enough factories and enough machines in the United States to supply all our needs, those factories will be closed part of the time and these machines will lie idle part of the time if the buying power of fifty million people within our borders remains restricted or dead as it is today.

I pointed out in my speech of acreptance the inter-dependence of the people of the United States—the fact that we cannot have independence in its true sense unless we take full account of our inter-dependence in order to provide a balanced economic well-being for all. Induseconomic well-being for all. Indus-trial prosperity can reach only ar-tificial and temporary heights as it did in 1929 if at the same time there is no agricultural prosperity. This nation can not endure if it is half "boom" and half "broke."

That word "inter-dependence" ap-plies also to the relationship between plies also to the relationship between the different parts of our country. If in the south a cotton-raising population goes into bankruptcy because the price of cotton is so low that it does not pay for the cost of production, you in the wheat belt or in the corn belt are directly affected by a tragedy a thousand miles away. If you who raise wheat or corn, lose your homes through foreclosure, every other farmer in the east or in the south or on the Pacific coast, every other farmer in the east or in the south or on the Pacific coast, and every factory worker in every part of the country, is directly affected by your distress.

Inter-dependence within the field of agriculture itself is a vital fact. Every kind of farming is related to every other kind. A disturbance anywhere within the structure causes repercussions everywhere.

FARMER IS WRECKED

FARMER IS WRECKED

If we would get to the root of the difficulty, we will find it in the present lack of equality for agriculture. Farming has not had an even break in our economic system, things that our farmers buy cost 9 per cent more than they did before the World War. The things before the World War. The things they sell bring them 43 per ceut less than then. These figures, as of Au-gust first, which are authenticated by the department of agriculture, mean that the farm dollar is worth mean-th: t-the farm dollar is worth less than half of what it represented before the war. Remember this, my friends, the things that farmers buy notected by Mr. Grundy's tariff, are 9 per cent above pre-war; the things that farmers sell—and remember world prices fix domestic prices—are 43 per cent below pre-war prices. The correction of this war prices. The correction of this condition must in some way bring the purchasing power of the farmer within reach of the things that Mr. Grundy has protected. It means inding a cure for the condition that compels the farmer to trade in 1932 two wagon-loads for the things for which in 1914 he traded one wagonload. This is as short a way as any to state the farm problem.

There are two undeniable historic acis of the past 12 years. First: The present administra-and the two previous adminis-trations, in all of which the presifailed utterly to understand the farm problem as a national whole, or to plan for its relief; and second, they destroyed the foreign markets for ortable farm surplu with the Fordney-McCum exportable ber tariff and ending with Grundy tariff, thus violating simplest principle of international trade, and forcing the inevitable re-taliation of foreign countries. I cannot forbear at this point expressing my amazement that in the face of this retaliation—inevitable from the day the Grundy tariff be-came law and predicted by every competent observer at home and abroad—not one effective step to deal with it or to alleviate its con-sequences has been taken or pro-posed by the national administration. In that attitude the republican lead-ership, from the president down, shows an incredible disregard of facts, combined with stubborn indifference to the consequence of their

NATIONAL PLANNING

FOR AGRICULTURE. Of some steps which should have be taken to meet this situation have already spoken and I shall ha more to say. At this moment want to speak of other phases of the problem of permanent farm relief. Let us pause to take a look at the problem in the longer per spective. We must have, I assert with all possible emphasis, national planning in agriculture. We must not have, as now, the scattering of our efforts through the heterogen and disassociated activities o our government agencies dealing with the problem. On the other hand, we must avoid the present tendency to rush from one expedi-ent to another. We need unity of planning, coherence in our administration and emphasis upon cure on my part, I suggest the follow ing permanent measures:

First: I would reorganize the United States department of agriculture, looking toward the administrative machinery needed to build a program of national planning I should be the last person in the world to become a harsh and thoughtless critic of a department that has done so many good things. But I know enough of government and of the ways of government to know that the growth of a depart-ment is often irregular, illogical and haphazard. It is always easy to add haphazard. It is always easy to ado to a department; additions mean mor: jobs. But to cut away unnecessary functions, eliminate useless jobs or redirect routine activities toward more fruitful purposes is a task that must be undertaken.
Second: I favor a definite policy looking to the planned use of the looking to the planned use of the land. We already have more than enough tilled land to meet our needs for many years to come, since our population has ceased to expand so rapidly and agriculture is becoming from year to year more efficient. We have in the 13 original states of the east and few others, great acres of relatively poor land hardly worth cultivation which provide either actual or potential competition with better land. This lowers the quality of farm products, depresses the prices of better farm products, creates great added expense because of the faulty distribution of the population and consumes public and private resources in attempting the development of means of giving and communication that should not be needed. The sum total result of all this is waste and hardship. To provide the necessary guidance for the correction of this faulty distribution of farms and of farming energy there is need for an economic soil survey especially in the eastern states to be carried on jointly by the nation and the states through the infitiative of the federal government. This soil survey should have a much broader the federal government. This soil survey should have a much broader scope than present surveys, and should be directed toward the problems of proper utilization of the land and future distribution of population along sound economic lines. It should lead to mapping and classifi-cation of land of all kinds, to de-termine which lands are best suited for agricultural production, which lands are marginal and which lands are suited only to growing tree

Let me give you this simple example of something I have actually don. Remember, at the same time, that this does not apply to the wheat belt or the corn belt but does apply to most of the eastern states. We in the state of New York have apply the people, the in the state of New York have approved, by vote of the people, the expenditure of $10,000,000 toward the elimination of marginal lands from actual farming. This year alone we have bought over 200,000 acres of unprofitable marginal farm lands and have turned these acres into the growing of trees for lumber and pulp. I do not have tumber and pulp. I do not have to point out to you the fact that this eastern program is not only good for the east but is also of value in that it removes the competition of marginal hill farms from your own crops in the west

Such planning, designed primarily to gain a better and less wasteful distribution of agricultural produc-tive effort, inevitably will point the way to readjustments in the distribution of the population in reneral.
The pendulumn is swinging back from the intense concentration of population in cities. We know the possibilities for the greater ease and comfort of modern rural and small town living. This does not mean a "baci-to-the-land" movement in the ordinary sense of a return to agriculture. It means definite efforts to decentralize industry.

It will effect cheaper and more wholesome living for much of our population. To the farmer it will mean bringing a considerable part of his market closer to his own door

A third process of permanent re-lief for agriculture can come through national leadership in the reduction and more equitable distribution of taxes. With respect to this I propose to exert, through the presidency, as I have done through the governorship, such influence as I can, in favor of a national movement to expressive local government. ment to reorganize local government in the direction of eliminating some of the tax burden which now bears so heavily on farms. There are too many taxing districts, too many lo-cal units of government, too many unnecessary offices and functions. unnecessary offices and functions. The governmental underbrush which has sprouted for years should be cleared away. In addition we need a clearer separation of fields of taxation as between the nation, the states and the localities. By so doing, we can lift some of the tax burden resting on land, and I mean to stress that objective by every means at my command. These three objectives are of the sort that will require slow-moving development. require slow-moving development. They constitute a necessary building the future. In meeting the im it is necessary to adopt quick-acting MORTGAGED FARMS MUST BE REFINANCED. In the first place, there is the necessity for refinancing of farm mortgages in order to relieve the burmortgages in order to relieve the bur-den of excessive interest charges and the grim threat of foreclosure. Much was done in the last session of con-gress to extend and liquefy and pass on to the federal government the burden of debt of railroads, banks, utilities and industry in general. Something in the nature of a gesture was made in the direction of financ-ing urban homes. But practically nothing was done toward removing the destructive menace of debt from the destructive menace of debt from farm homes. It is my purpose, if elected, to direct all the energy of which I am capable to the formulation of definite projects to relieve this distress. Specifically, I am prepared to insist that federal credit e extended to banks, insurance or loan companies, or other tions of individuals which h mortgages among their assets—but that these credits must be made on the condition that every reasonable assistance be given to the mortgagors where the loans are sound, with the the purpose of preventing foreclosure. These conditions must be enforced. Lower interest rates and an forced. Lower interest rates and an extension of principal payments will save thousands of farms to their owners. And hand-in-hand with this we must adopt the definite policy of giving those who have lost the title to their farms, now held by institutions seeking credit from governmental agencies, the preferential opportunity of getting their property back.

The second immediate necessity is to provide a means of bringing about, through governmental effort, a sub-stantial reduction in the difference between the prices of the things the farmer sells and the things he buys. One way of attacking this disparity is by restoring international trade through tariff readjustments. HOPE IN TARIFF POLICY OF DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

The democratic tariff policy consists, in large measure, of negotiating agreements with individual countries permitting them to sell goods to us in return for which they will let us sell to them goods and crops which we produce. An effective application of this principle will restore the flow of international trade; and the first result of that flow will be to assist substantially the Amerand the first result of that flow will be to assist substantially the Amer-ican farmer in disposing of his sur-plus. It is recognized, however, that to take up the slack until interna-tional trade is sufficiently restored, we must devise means to provide for the farmer a benefit which will give him in the shortest possible time the equivalent of what the protected manufacturer gets from the tariff. manufacturer gets from the tariff.
You farmers put this well in a single phrase, "we must make the tariff

In the last few years many plans In the last few years many plans have been advanced for achieving this object. None has been given a trial. The circumstances are so complex that no man can say with assurance that one particular plan is applicable to all crops or even that one plan is better than another in relation to a particular crop.

One fact I want to make clear, with all possible emphasis. There is no reason to despair merely because defects have been found in all of these plans; or because some of them have been discarded by responsible leaders in favor of new plans. The fact that so much earnest study and investigation of this problem has been made, from so many angles, and by so many men is, in my opinion, ground for assurance rather than despair. Such a wealth of information has been accumulated, so many possibilities explored, so many able minds enlisted, and, more important still, so much education on the subject provided for and by the farmers themselves, that the time has come when able and thoughtful leaders who have followed this development from the beginning are now focussing on the basic elements of the problem and the practical nature of its solution.

problem and the practical nature of its solution.

Within the past year many of our principal industrialists also have come to the conclusion that since the great decline of our export trade the chief hope for industrial rehabilitation lies in some workable method of dealing with farm surpluses.

SYMPATHY FOR FARMER ABSENT IN ADMINISTRATION.

ABSENT IN ADMINISTRATION.

Support for the trial of some plan to put the tariff into effect seems to be found everywhere except in the administration at Washington. This official lack of sympathy has probably done more to prevent the development of concrete, generally acceptable plans than any single force. To me it appears the administration takes a wholly unfair attitude. It says, in substance, that since a perfect plan has not been developed nothing can be done; and at the same time it takes a position wholly inimical to every effort made during the past 11 years to provide workable means of relief. This negative position taken by the administration is more than a mere failure to assume leadership. It is an absolute repudiation of responsibility. This negative, even hostile position has included a disposition on the part of the administration to set proponents of one plan off against another: the apparent object being to part of the administration to set pro-ponents of one plan off against an-other; the apparent object being to create a situation in which it is pos-sible for administration leadership to say, "How can we do anything for agriculture when it is not agreed within itself as to what it wants within itself as to what it wants to do?"

It will be my purpose, my friends, to compose the conflicting elements of these various blans, to gather the benefit of the long study and consideration of them; to co-ordinate efforts to the end that agreement may be reached upon the details of a distinct policy, aimed at producing the result to which all these efforts and plans are directed—the restoration of agriculture to economic equality with other industries within the United States. I seek to give to that portion of the crop consumed in the United States a benefit equivalent to a tariff sufficient to give your farmers an adequate price.

ROOSEVELT IN ACCORD WITH FARMERS' PLANS.

WITH FARMERS' PLANS.

I want now to state what seems to be the specifications upon which most of the reasonable leaders of agriculture have agreed, and to express here and now my whole-hearted accord with these specifications.

First: The plan must provide for the producer of staple surplus commodities, such as wheat, cotton, corn (in the from of hogs) and tobacco, a tariff benefit over world prices which is equivalent to the benefit given by the tariff to industrial products. This differential benefit must be so applied that the increase in farm income, purchasing and debt-paying power will not stimulate further production. Second: The plan must finance itself. Agriculture has at no time sought and does not now seek any such access to the public treasury as was provided by the futile and costly attempts at price stabilization by the federal farm board. It seeks only equality of opportunity with tariff-protected industry.

Third: It must not make use of any mechanism which would cause our European customers to retaliate on the ground of dumping. It must be based upon making the tariff effective and direct in its operation.

existing agencies and so far as possible be decentralized in its administration so that the chief responsibility for its operation will rest with locality rather than with newly created bureaucratic machinery in Washington.

Fifth: It must operate as nearly as possible on a co-operative movement. It should, moreover, be constituted so that it can be withdrawn whenever the emergers has passed and nor emergency has passed and nor-mal foreign markets have been re-established. Sixth: The plan must be, in Sixth: The plan must be, in so far as possible, voluntary. I like the idea that the plan should not be put into operation unless it has the support of a reasonable proportion of the producers of the exportable commodity to which it is to apply. It must be so organized that the benefits will go to the man who participates.

ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR EVERY ASSISTANCE.

These, it seems to me, are the essential specifications of n workable plan. In determining the details necessary to the solution of so vast a problem it goes without saying that many minds must meet and many persons must work together. Such co-operation must of necessity come from those who have had the widest experience with the problem. widest experience with the problem and who enjoy to the greatest de-gree the confidence of the farmers in this country. Without in any sense seeking to avoid responsibility. I shall avail myself of the widest possible range of such assistance. My willingness to do this is fully attested by the extent to which the development of our agricultural program in New York has been brought about through the assistance given to me on a non-partisan, non-paid basis, by the leaders of agriculture in the state of New York. This cooperation and advice which I received in New York came not only from those directly interested in agriculture but from the leaders in the legislature as well. There were there, as there are in the congress of the United States, far-sighted and patriotic servants, republicans and democrats, who are willing to put the welfare of agriculture and of the country as a whole ahead of party advantage. To such leaders in all parties I shall look for guidance, good-will and support.

After all, the farmer's hope for the future must rest upon the policy and the spirit in which his case is considered. His problem is one of difficulty. It is for him to decide whether he wants the solution of this problem to be committed to leaders who are determined to relieve the inequities which have caused his distress, or to leaders whose record clearly shows that they are determined to preserve a staggering subsidy for industry, but to give agriculture only a measure of words and more words. The essence of this question comes down to a matter of keeping faith with American agriculture. On my part, I can stand on my own record and on the policies I have just set forth.

On the opposite side, you have the long record of the present administration.

In setting forth that record you know better than I that the farmers' hope has had to rest upon the ministration.

In setting forth that record you know better than I that the farmers' hope has had to rest upon the the policy and spirit in which his case was considered by the government. We can fully test the policy and spirit of the present administration. It runs back a long time, because those leaders have held public office before. In those offices they have had ample opportunity to demhave had ample opportunity to dem onstrate their attitude toward ag

PLIGHT OF AGRICULTURE BELITTLED BY G. O. P.

PLIGHT OF AGRICULTURE
BELITTLED BY G. O. P.

When the depression in agriculture began in 1921, republican leaders first sought to belittle the plight of agriculture. They claimed that the old familiar tariff remedy would suffice: and they offered the Fordney-McCumber tariff act, passed (God save the mark) under the ironic label of farm relief. The republican leaders in position of national responsibility at that time—and this of course includes the then secretary of commerce—either did not or would not realize the change in international conditions due to international debts. They closed their eyes to the outstanding economic fact. Prior to the war we had paid our interest on our debts to Europe by means of agricultural exports. After the war, because we had changed to a creditor, and Europe was in debt to us, it was necessary that we demand either goods or gold in return. The Fordney-McCumber tariff barrier shut off the normal tide of trade. Europe could not pay, so she could not buy. Specifically, she began to stop buying our surplus farm products.

To offset the harmful effect of

To offset the harmful effect of this tariff situation, intelligent and responsible farm leaders worked out, in 1922, what they called a program in 1922, what they called a program for equality for agriculture. Plans to achieve this equality for agriculture were brought before members of the president's cabinet at that time. They moved in the direction of a republican agricultural conference to consider it. The conference met, It took the amazing position that production should be reduced to the demands of the domestic market by the cheerful means, it appeared, of "starving out" the farmers who had formerly exported to Europe. It is matter of common knowledge that the president, then the secretary of commerce, was not without influence in the determination of this result.

ADMINISTRATION REMEDY; "STARVE OUT FARMERS."

In fact, the conclusions of that grim agricultural conference were strikingly similar to those voiced subsequently by the secretary of commerce himself. In 1925, for example, he said "continuance of overgreduction means surplus and that production means surplus, and that production means surplus, and that can only be corrected by prices low enough to make production unprofitable for some of the acreage of use." In plain English this meant "lower the price: starve out one-third of the farms; then see what happens." Throughout the whole agricultural agony of the eusuing three years the secretary of commerce set himself adamant against all relief proposals. Farm leaders suggested segregation of export surplus from the domestic market. With marked acerbity he stated in a letter that such a step would "subsidize the British empire." The McNary-Haugen legislation called forth violent and abusive veto messages. There was, to put it mildly, no protest from the then secretary of commerce. The secretary of the treasury in 1926 well phrased the attitude of the administration. He insisted that any attempt to raise domestic prices was a "subsidy" and he stated that "if given to five agricultural commodities the government could not logically refuse to give the same commodities the government could not logically refuse to give the same reatment to the textile, boot and thoe, coal and other industries."—wiblimely disregarding the plain fact that the tariff was already giving hose industries, in effect, the highest subsidy in history.

Now to put forth, as the secretary of commerce did, the idea of limit-ing farm production to the domesof commerce did, the idea of limiting farm production to the domestis market was simply to threaten agriculture with a terrific penalty. Apparently, either he did not see, or did not care, that this meant allowing wheat land in Kansas to remain idle, forcing foreclosure of furm mortgages, wrecking farm families, while our withdrawal from the world's markets principally benefited foreign producers. He did not sak the manufacturers to reduce their exports. As secretary of commerce, he made no fight for American agriculture's share of world trade, though he could find time to assist foreign sales of every nonagricultural product. In his campaign speeches of 1928 he offered merely a program of co-operative marketing and self-help. This was to be developed through a farm board as a means of handling the surplus, although he should have known, as responsible farm leaders knew, that the co-operatives obviously could not undertake the burden of controlling the great surplus cut adrift by tariff harriers. H: could and should have seen that they handled only a relatively small volume, and that it would be impossible for the members to shoulder the load and the cost. The idea of "stabilizing" through speculative operation was conceived and was written into the platform of 1928 and was vigorously supported by the candidate for the presidency. You now know to your cost what stabilizing meant in practice. G. O. P. TARIFF RELIEF

PROVED 'GHASTLY FRAUD.'

Meanwhile, the familiar old song of the benefits to be derived from the tariff was heard. In 1928 in his acceptance speech, Mr. Hoover said: "An adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief." He and his supporters insisted in 1928 that we were importing $3,300,000,000 of farm products and that an adequate tariff laid on these would be sufficient for the relief of agriculture. It was a ghastly fraud. The principal items of "agricultural-imports" were rubber, silk, coffee, tea and the like—a long list of exotic and tropical goods, including such American farm products as elephants' tusks, skins of the Russian ermine and alaby, and elks' hides. The fact was that imports which competed with products grown in America amounted only to $460,000,000; and sugar represented over half of this figure. The truth was that our farmers do not produce the items proposed to be protected by a tariff—they consume them. The "remedy" handed the farmer was not to raise his selling price, but to raise his cost of living.

I take it that the process of edu-

I take it that the process of edu-cation through hard knocks has gone far enough to make it unnecessary to me to comment further. The claim that the republican discriminatory tariff methods are a benefit to the farmer is a cynical and pitiless fraud.

Shortly after his inauguration in 1929, the president assembled a spe-1929, the president assembled a special session of congress. He went through the form of fulfilling his campaign promises by the passing of his agricultural marketing act and the Hawley-Smoot tariff. The decline of prices increased, a slump was apparent. The co-operatives could not meet the situation. This resulted in a tremendous undigested surplus overhanging the market; it put a millstone around the neck of the co-operatives. The effort resulted in squandering hundreds of millions of the taxpayers' money. Farm board speculative operataions must and shall come to an end.

ADMINISTRATION'S ADVICE TO FARMERS CRUEL.

TO FARMERS CRUEL. When the futility of maintaining prices of wheat, and cotton, through so-called stabilization, became apparent, the president's farm board, of which his secretary of agriculture was a member, invented the cruel joke of advising farmers to allow 20 per cent of their wheat lands to lie idle, to plow up every third row of cotton and to shoot every tenth dairy cow. Surely they knew that his advice would not—indeed, could not—be taken. It was probably offered as the foundation of an alibi. They wanted to be able to say to the wanted to be able to say to the farmers: "You did not do as we told you to do. Blame yourselves."

Now after the harm has been done,

Now after the harm has been done, the president's acceptance speech of 1932 fully recognizes the futility of the stabilizing experiment and merely apologizes for the results. In order to avoid responsibility he claims that the farm board departed "from its original purpose by making loans to farmers, co-operatives and to preserve prices from panic." It was his farm board. Why did he permit such a departure?

The president's acceptance speech such a departure?

The president's acceptance speech with its artful excuses and its empty promise will bear careful reading by the farmers of this country in the light of the promises of 1928. I wish that the republican campaign organization would provide every farmer with a copy of the president's acceptance speech. I can imagine a farmer sitting on his door-step meditating on the questions that have caused him so much concern, while he reads that speech.

The farmer asks the question:

The farmer asks the question:
"How may we expect that our exports will be restored and some way provided by which our customers may pay for our surplus produce with goods which we farmers can use." He reads the answer in the acceptance speech: "I am squarely for a protective tariff."

"Does this" asks the farmer

"Does this," asks the farmer,
"mean the Grundy tariff bill that you signed?" The acceptance speech is silent on that point.

Again the farmer asks: "Maybe the tariff can be made effective on farm produce consumed at home? Time after time the organized farmers of the United States and the friends of agriculture have sought to do just that." The answer of the president in his acceptance speech is an attempt to close the door of hope on this subject: "No power on earth can restore prices except by restoration of general recovery and markets. Every measure we have taken looking to general recovery is of benefit to the farmer."

ROOSEVELT REJECTS ROLE OF DEFEATIST.

And that, if you please, is the record. That is what we have to expect from the present republican leadership. More republican tariffs. Implacable opposition to any plan to raise the price of farm products. A program of "starving out" a third of the present production. A splendid prospect, this! Reduced to lowest terms, the present administration asks farmers to put their interests into the hands of their bitterest opponents—mon who will xpect from the present republican terest opponents—men who will go to any and all lengths to safeguard and strengthen a protected few, but who will coldly say to American farmers:

"One-third of you are not needed. Run a race with bankruptcy to see which will survive." It is no new theory of government. It has been reactionary policy since time immemorial. Help the few; perhaps those few will be kind enough to help the many.

This is unsound: it is unfair: if help the many.

This is unsound; it is unfair; it is unjust. Industry can never prosper unless the agricultural market is restored and farm buying power returns. Without tariff readjustment the president's program is hopeless; without active assistance, the Grundy schedules can break the farmer long before the farmer can find a market for his goods. It suggests that if industry revives, the farmer will be taken care of; though you all know that the boom of 1929 brought nothing but lower prices and more debts to the farm.

The situation challenges every re-

The situation challenges every respossible statesman in America to seek in agricultural circles an active remedial plan. The president has indicated his attitude in advance. His laconic "I shall oppose them" closes the last door of hope in him

I cannot share his view. I will I cannot share his view. I will not believe that in the face of a problem like this we must merely throw up our hands. I have unbounded faith in a restored and rehabilitated agriculture. In this profession of faith I invite you to join. May those of us who intend a solution and decline the defeatist attitude join tirelessly in the work of advancing to a better ordered economic life. The time has come. The hour has struck. hour has struck.

Ralph McGill's Football Review

Tennessee Coaches

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 14.—In the summer of 1912 three boys, in widely separated sections of the nation, were each packing a suitcase for a trip east to West Point.

In a small Texas town a big boy named Bob Neyland was going off to West Point to learn to be a general. And in a small town in Florida a tall boy named Bill Parker was the town hero because he, too, was going to the Point. And in middle west lowa and in another small town Bill Britton was eyed with admiration and feminine hearts beat faster. He was going to West Point.

And that is the starting of a story which moved on through various channels of peace and war until 1925 when Neyland came to the East Tennessee town of Knoxville as an assistant football coach. It has come to be quite a story, starting with 1926, when Parker and RALPH M'GILL. Britton dropped anchor in Knoxville and things started hum-

And that is why there must always be two stories written of Tennessee's football products. They are to have another great football team here this fall. But the first story must be of the coaches, the three musketeers of East Tennessee, who took the big orange football teams out of a haphazard existence and made them rank with the nation's greatest teams.

There isn't much doubt that the 1931 Tennessee eleven was one of the really great teams in the nation. The easy and convincing faction with which the matter of the really great teams in the nation. The easy and convincing faction with which the matter of the really great teams in the nation. The easy and convincing faction with which the matter of the really great teams in the nation. The easy and convincing faction with which the matter of the really great teams in the nation. vincing fashion with which they won from New York University was just an indication of it.

South Playing Superior Football-Neyland.

And this year finds Bob Neyland stating that he believes the Southern conference to be playing football which is superior to that played anywhere.

The five best teams in the Southern conference this year would be able to beat, four games out of five, the five best teams from any other section.

That is what the three West Point classmates have seen the south do with football. And they have kept pace since that fall in 1926 when they took over the football destinies of the Orange and White.

The big Texan had gone to the Point to become a star football end, a champion boxer and a star baseball pitcher. He was selected on the All-American baseball team for a couple of years.

There was always just one big game of the year, that with the Navy. And Neyland's mother came up for one game, his senior year, and saw him pitch the only really poor game he pitched. We had been talking about mothers watching their sons play football and their enthusiasm for their sons.

"I was pitching terribly," said Neyland, "but my mother was sure it was the fault of the boys who were not catching the balls they hit. There was a plebe pitcher warming up to replace me, and mother went to him and said, 'Young man, are you going to take my son's place?'
She seemed to think he was the man who was taking

Paul Parker became a great end at the Point. It was Bill Britton, however, who was the best athlete at the Point. Britton was a four-letter man, winning letters in track, basketball, football and baseball. Track and basketball were minor sports then. The only way one could win a varsity letter in them was to play on a basketball team which won the eastern championship and to break an academy record in track. Britton did that. And he was also a tackle and guard on the football team.

Parker, Neyland Coach at West Point.

That was the background. Parker and Neyland coached for a few years at West Point. Britton had a year as assistant at

In 1925 Neyland came to Tennessee as assistant to M. B. Banks. Banks had a curious staff that year. He had one man from Illinois, one from the Army and one from some other section.

In 1926 there was a change and Neyland took over the head coaching job. His first official act was to send for his old classmates. Parker and Britton.

And there began then what is probably the most remarkable coaching record of modern years since competition has become generally more difficult.

Since 1926 Tennessee has won 52 football games, lost two Vanderbilt won convincingly in 1926. The old Vanderbilt jinx was still working. It used to be said that Vanderbilt won before the game was played. The Tennessee team being psychologically defeated in its own mind. But 1926 was the last time it worked. Vanderbilt and Tennessee tied in 1927. Since 1927 Tennessee has won each year from Vanderbilt. And other rivals which were wont to trample Tennessee with a modicum of ease have found the going difficult.

Alabama won in 1930. Tennessee had lost four stars. Bobby Dodd was carrying the burden. And Tennessee might have won that game. The brilliant Dodd, who almost single-handedly won, dropped a pass thrown him-the only one he missed during his career. Had he held it Tennessee would have won

Lose Only Two Games Since 1926.

Those are the only two losses-Vanderbilt in 1926 and Alabama in 1930.

The curious thing about the Tennessee team are three ties with Kentucky. There is hardly any dispute about the fact of Tennessee having the better team. But some curious let-up and some curious breaks have given the fighting Kentuckians three ties, one in 1927, another in 1928 and another in 1931.

The Jokesmiths always forecast the Kentucky-Tennessee

The Tennessee coaching staff is a remarkable organization. It is a staff which works with a great deal of energy and determination. It has never rested on its laurels. It keeps working. The three men work with complete co-operation and each is a specialist. The Tennessee attack is smart and its defense clever. There have been fewer teams with as much smartness as has been displayed by the Tennessee teams of the past six years.

And another great team is in the making here. The story of the team will do for tomorrow. The first story had to be of the three men who started for West Point in 1912 from Texas, Florida and lowa and ended here at Tennessee to make new football history for the south.

It was Boston, the land of the cod and the bean and the mashie, that dominated the show. Boston came through with three entries out of the eight survivors, and one of the three, Francis Ouimet, turned on one of the greatest shows golf has ever known. This story should be the saga of Francis Ouimet, one of the finest sports-men of all time. He had to get down in one put on the last three greens to crash the guarding barrier. Then he drew George Voigt, one of the finest amateurs in the world, for the first round today.

With Zeke Cozart back in the fold, the Carolina line is beginning to take definite form so far as the end and tackle posts go, but the inexperience of the Tar fieel guards and the rosy stories emanating from Wake Forest about the fast and veteran Deacon backs are still giving Coach Chuck Collins much to worry about.

Wake Forest has six letter backs and all sorts of offensive potentialises, as do the Tar Heels, who can trot out seven veteran ball-carrying accs. On the other hand, Captain Bill Green and Dusty Dudley, Wake Forest's outstanding letter lineman, are both ends, and the center parts of the Wake Forest line will show to for new faces, just as will the Carolina line.

The only difference is that Coach Fat Miller is utilizing much sophomore material up from last year's fine freshman team, while Chuck Collins is trying to fortify the Carolina ramparts with less flashy but more experienced reserves.

Cozart's return has helped a lot at Carolina, for he is a senior reserve of quite some experience. The Targ Heels should be fairly strong at end, it is back for the left flank, and there are of the regular, Erwin Walker, is back for the left flank, and there are of the good candidates in George Brandt and Julian Frankel, reserves, and Lee Manley, soph.

Although they met stubborn opposition, particularly from John Corn, a Grey Devil, at guard, and young Hoot Gibson, of Tech High, a freshman, at left end, the varsity advanced the ball up and down the field twice, making what amounted to two touchdowns.

CHAPIN ENCOURAGED

AS PRICES SHOW GAIN WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(R)—
Secretary Chapin, of the commerce department, today said he was "much encouraged" by the recent upward movement of prices both at home and abroad.

In his first press conference as a member of President Hoover's cabinet, Secretary Chapin said that since the low point reached late in May domestic prices have shown an almost continuous advance.

At the present time, he continued, an index of more than a hundred leading commodities is more than per cent above its low point.

VETERAN LINEMEN.

Among the veteran linemen are Patterson and Werts, ends; Craig, Footsie Davis and Dozier, tackles, and Proctor and Heinemann, guards. All have plenty of competition from sophomores and reserves.

Neely will have a light and speedy team for his nine-game schedule, including four conference teams. He expects the line to average a little better than 180 pounds and the backfield around 165.

The Tigers begin the season with Presbyterian College here September 23 and then meet two strong conference opponents, Georgia Tech at Atlanta, October 1, and North Carolina State at Raleigh, October 8.

The other opponents, in order, are Erskine, South Carolina, Davidson, The Citadel, Georgia and Furman. Erskine, South Carolina, Davidso The Citadel, Georgia and Furman.

The "Brass Rail," a new sea-food restaurant, will open this morning at 38 Peachtree street, under the management of Charles Herrin, formerly first assistant chef under Oscar, of the Waldorf, in New York. It will be operated under the supervision of the Pig'n Whistle Sandwich Shops, of which Harold Hagan is president. The "Brass Rail" will feature all kinds of sea food, roast meats, such as roast beef, Harding's corned beef, and other unusual tasty foods, Mr. Herrin announced. The sea foods will be received twice a day in shipments from the Georgia coast and New Orleans. Neely, beginning his second year at Clemson, glanced appraisingly at his squad of nearly 50 men on the practice field. There were 21 backfield candidates among them.

Now 72 1-2 match points are a lot of points and they proved enough to win that tournament. Five points back and making a gallant stretch run came Mrs. Harry Cannon and Bill Dickey. Third place went to Mrs. Lillie Mae Wilkes and Harry Dobbs, who were one-half point back of the runners-up. The tournament was well attended and so much interest has been shown that Mrs. McDaniel plans to have a small one Thursday evening.

STATE DENIED APPEAL IN CRIMINAL RULINGS

Right of the state to carry a crim inal case to the supreme court after the court of appeals has decided in favor of the defendant was denied by the high court Wednesday in passing upon one of the Walter C. Taylor graft cases.

Taylor, convicted in Fulton superior court of offering a bribe to James A. Beall and sentenced to serve 12 months and pay a fine of $500, won a reversal in the court of appeals on the ground that the statute of limitations had run since the crime was alleged to have been committed in 1923. Solicitor-General Boykin's application for a writ of certiorari from the supreme court to the court of appeals was refused in Wednesday's decision.

Taylor is now serving a sentence on the Fulton chain gang as a result of convictions in three other cases.

The penalty proved to be 1.000 points, whereas the best that East and West, not vulnerable, could have scored would have been some 500 points for a game. Had South bid a club. West would also have doubled, but it is highly doubtful if East could have passed this bid for a penalty, and even if he had done so, the penalty would have been at most 600

Miss Conley and Mr. Quade Wed At Inman Park Church Ceremony

Characterized by beauty and dignity was the marriage of Miss Agnes Rachel Conley and Charles Bennett Quade, which was soleminized at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Ioman Park Methodist church. The impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. F. Frase in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

The interior of the church presented a lovely setting for the marriage, the altar being banked with tropical palms and ferns interspersed with tall white floor baskets filled with white dahlies and close friends were marked by clusters of white dahliss tied with white valley chiffon.

An appropriate program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Marye Caldwell, the organist. She played the love songs of several nations, including "Venetian Love Song." "Bussian Romance" and "Traumerel," Preceding the ceremony Miss Manora Conley sang "Until" by Teschemacher, and J. Albert Wilson sang "I Love You," Truly" by Bond. FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

A young correspondent who is going away to college this autumn write: that she thinks prospective college students would enjoy some discussion of ways and means of being popular with one's college mates. She as always been popular with the boys in her school but has never been able to make many friends among the girls, and she cannot discover the cause of her failures.

This is laudable ambition on the part of the young woman and one that burns in almost every breast, con. lously, or unconsciously; to have one's associates think well of one, which is the very essence of popularity. Necessarily girls in college, and in boarding school, are thrown into intimate contact with each other, much as members of a family are thrown very intimately with each other. One may live in one's own home and associate with others living in their own homes and hide behind a screen of privacy as thick as the walls of the houses that separate them. But under the same roof, eating at the same table, engaging in the same work and in the same pastimes with one's house-mates, there is little opportunity for concealment of what one thinks, what one does and what one feels. Therefore it is essential to think and do and feel in such a way that others approve and applaud if popularity is to be realized. have one's associates think well of

A distinguished educator says there are two kinds of discipline: the discipline that is developed from within, which is for growth, and the discipline impressed from without which the discipline impressed from without the discipline in the discipline i in, which is for growth, and the discipline imposed from without, which is for self-control. With this as a starting point let us approach this problem of personal popularity, which begins with the cultivation of personable qualities. A woman cannot put too much emphasis on personal daintimess, whether she be young or old, pretty or ugly. Nothing takes the place of a daily bath, a careful assemblying of the costume, clean hair, polished nails and a neat appearance.

It has been definitely determined by the armies that a soldier's mo-rale is perceptibly affected by close attention to good grooming. No matter where the army is, no matter what the duties of the soldiers, no matter where they go, or what they do, they are required to bathe, wear clea. clothes, shave regularry, polish their brass buttons and shine their shoes. These simple devices are recognized as aids to self-respect and therefore as being necessary to morale. The man or woman that lacks pride or self-respect can never command the respect of others and nobody is popular that

There is a tendency on the part of ome people to discount these simple arts and to say that the distinct ly spiritual expression of personality all-important in human relation. Well, such spiritual expression of the more important, but show me woman that is untily and careabout her personal appearance about her personal appearance. is all-important in human relation-one woman that is untidy and careless about her personal appearance, show me one such that is not discounted by all who come in contact with her, and her case may give some warrant for argument about the matter. On the other hand, show me one woman that is noted for her good grooming, her neatness, her unremitting attention to the details of her lappearance, show me one such that is appearance, show me one such that is not constantly alluded to as being distinctive and that instance may lend some support to the plea that good-grooming is a waste of time.

A.ybody that would be popular has got to learn the hardest lesson that life proposes. That lesson concerns the unruly member. Can you hold your tongue? Can you refrain from letting your friends know what you think of them when the thoughts are uncompilmentary? the thoughts are uncomplimentary? Can you refrain from rebuking them when they violate your particular code? Can you keep quiet under provocation to speak out? Can you always manage to rub dow, the ruffled feathers of your friends by saying just enough and not too much? Or do you take them to task when they fail to do what you expect of them, and criticize them when they overstep the lines you have laid down as a boundary between you? If you would be popular in college or in the wider world you must conquer that feminine foible—the loose tongue.

Going rapidly down the passage-way she and Jack came around the last turn, and then, with a quick catching of their breath, stopped dead in their tracks. The light shone upon the heavy plank doors, which were re-enforced with bronze, closed across the mouth of the passage.

Dangerous as Bobby knew the situation to be, she felt as safe as a child when it knows its mother is near. Jack's arm about her seemed an absolute guarantee of protection. And yet she knew how mercilessly bullets could rip through flesh. She had seen Tony Lombardo a moment after he had been shot down on a loop street during the evening rush hour.

She didn't like to recall that picture. The crowd milling. The man lying there in the dreadful pool of red. The years had not effaced that seeme and probably never had thought much about death. But she did realize now, walking beside Jack, with his strong arm about her, that if she were to die now, with him, it would not seem so terrible, nor so lonely as it would have seemed that first night she had come to the lodge, before she had learned to care for him.

Now they had again reached the heavy doors, and Jack, trying this key and that one, at last found the right one to open them.

For many years a leader in the Catholic church of the state, Mrs. Lynch was widely known in Georgia. She was on her way from Atlanta to Dublin to visit relatives when the accident occurred. The chauffeur, Simon Green, negro, of Atlanta, said the car was forced off the road about four miles south of Forsyth by two four miles south of Forsyth by two tother cars, one of which bore an Indiana license tag.

NEW YORK Sopt. 14.—(P)—A court battle to accide when New York elects its next mayor ended today with decision reserved.

Arguing before Supreme Court Justice John McGeehan were Tammany Hall and socialist spokesmen, who seek an election this November, and representatives of Mayor Joseph V. McKee, who contends he has a right to hold office for 16 months more.

After two and a half hours of heated arguments, Justice McGeehan announced he would not make his decision known at once.

The board of elections appeared as a defendant in the action brought by McKee's friends on an order to show

According to Patrolman E. H. Bentley, who occupies the DeKalb avenue house with Pressly, the latter had told his wife of the attack and she informfor Pressly, but he had not been lo-hear, whereupon the negro cut him.

Pressly, his wife said, left the scene without investigating.

Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant talked with Bland Wednesday, but the

that he would tell him of the affair Wednesday.

Meanwhile Grady heavital streeter cated Wednesday night.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 14.—
(P)—Mrs. Lulu M. Douglas, her son, Bruce Jr., and daughter, Vashti, all of Homerville, Ga., appeared here today before Justice of the Peace J. L. Geiger and made bonds aggregating $10.000 on charges of mayhem in connection with the acid burning of Mrs. G. A. Gibbs, also of Homerville, Mrs. Gibbs is in a hospital here and attaches tonight said her condition was "still serious," with no change noted.

Mrs. Douglas furnished bond of $5,000 and the children $2,500 each. None of the three would make a statement. They immediately returned to Homerville after posting bond.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(P)—
Stocks broke into new low ground for the current reaction to any accompanying a 2-cent drop in wheat.

Short covering prompted by better electric power figures and a small gain in stoel prod-tion gave leading issues a moderate lift in the morning, but this advance was very leisurely and the market soon tired.

Selling which began to appear shortly after noon gained momentum, and in the last hour b. me active, pushing important stocks down 1 to 8 points. Approximately 1,200,000 shares changed hands in the final 50 minutes, bringing aggregate volume to minutes, bringing aggregate volume of 3,252,854 shares.

Farm implement equities broke sharply, Case losing 8 1-4 net and International arvester more than 5. Offerings, however, were general and such favorites as United States Steel, Westinghouse, American Telephone, du Pont, Southern Pacific and American Can reacted from nearly 3 to more than 4 points. Wall Street was somewhat at a loss

Wall Street was somewhat at a loss to explain the setback. Whereas the market a fortnight ago was eagerly looking for favorable straws in the business winc, i appeared to get but feeble support from today's offerings. Steel output, although larger than a week ago, is nevertheless recovering less rapidly than had been forecast in August

August.

Iron Age reported a one-point rise to 15 1-2 per cent of the country's capacity, noting that increases so far this month "have not been in proportion to the gain in confidence."

Production of electricity last week was under the previous week in which the holiday fell, but the drop from year ago was reduce to 8.7 per cent, the best comparison since last March.

The census burear's announcement of a large increase in August cotton consumption and exports over July confirmed previously circulated trade reports, as was evident from the cotton market's cool reception of the news.

news.

Some of the leading railroads had smaller freight loadings last week than in the previous period, but the Labor Day influence had to be reckened with in appraising the figures. The September holday usually slackens movement of goods.

PARIS—Encouraged by the letter tone in endon, quotations on the bourse showed better disposition. Most of yesterday's uses were recovered and the closing was rm.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14. — The recovery yesterday aftern-oon and this morning was as evidently in the nature of a rebound from five days of decline that snother test on the down side was a normal expectation. This afternoon's reaction, however, developed so much force and activity as to suggest that a resumption of the main downward trends may be in order. While there were many exceptions, establishing of new lows was rather general, particularly among the leaders. The market has developed a case of pre-election serves at lust about the time it was begianing to get worried over the failure of fall business improvement to measure up to expectations. The new average low which was very probably established today, and the manner in which it was established, suggests that some further reaction will be seen before another support level is developed. The August 12, level of 60.50 for the Dow-Jones industrial average out to be a good rallying point for the constructive forces. The contents of the address where no known until after grain trading had ended.

Wheat closed unsteady, 1.7-8 to 2.1-4 cents under yesterday's finish, corn 1-2 to 1 cent down, oats unchanged to 1-8 to 1-4 cent off, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

The recent corrective movement may be regarded as having done much to correct whatever of excess was represented by the highs of a week ago. However slow, there has been actual improvement in business conditions, consideration of which, at these

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(P)—The curb market tried to rally today, but suffered a severe relapse in the last hour. The turnover of 440,000 shares was 310,000 less than yesterday's large volume, but stocks were actively sold in the late trading.

Electric Bond and Share was sold in large volume, breaking more than 6 points to 24 3-8, about half of its recent high. Losses were less severe in other utilities.

Aluminum Company plunged widely in the industrial group, closing with a net loss of 10 3-4. Deere held up relatively better than farm implements on the big board, losing little more than a point.

Gulf was a soft spot in the oils, off 3 1-2, while Indiana lost only a fraction, keeping within a couple of points of the year's high.

Cone Frees Newlywed On Traffic Law Charge Courage should be rewarded, according to Recorder John L. Cone, who Wednesday let a bridegroom off without cash payment of a fine when F. W. Worrill, 21, of 535 Merrill street, appeared before the recorder charged with running over a traffic stop sign.

When Worrill was arraigned, T. O. Sturdivant Jr., son of the Atlanta police chief, appeared as a character witness and informed the recorder that Worrill was recently married and could ill afford payment of a fine.

"Any man," said the recorder, "who has the courage to add a wife to his expenses has my admiration. I fine you $4 and suspend payment." Whereupon Worrill walked out to meet his new bride.

Thomas made a four-fold reply to the second objection.

The private business is neither efficient nor honest in this last racketering stage of capitalism. I have only to cite the record of bank failures, the amazing losses on Wall Street and the episode of South American loans procured by supposedly respectable banks through open bribery.

Four senators, long active in Washington, were renominated in various sections of the country. They were: Senator George H. Moses, republican, New Mampshire; Senator Porter H. Dale, republican, Vermont; Senator Ellison D. Smith, democrat, South Carolina. and Senator Wesley L. Jones, republican, Washington.

In addition, Carl Hayden, Arizona's democratic senator, had apparently outstripped his opposition, but whether he would obtain a majority in the four-sided contest was still in doubt.

Incomplete returns indicated that Arizona's seven-time governor, 73-year-old George W. P. Hunt, had been defeated for renomination by Dr. B. B. Moeur, a newcomer in state politics.

that in addition to electing a governor and two repealist congressmen they had made enough inroads in the state legislature to demand a prominent voice in affairs there.

Democrats gained five seats, with another one in doubt in the state senate, where two years ago they were without representation.
